

Epiny Business and Enterprise School 2013-2014

News: fundrais

Parent & Teacher

Pupils and PTA get behind grand design for school

The PTA and pupils at Epiny Business and Enterprise School, Jarrow, Tyneside, are busy about the big £100,000 plan to build a new £100,000 school building.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School, Jarrow, Tyneside, is planning to build a new £100,000 school building for children with a wide range of special educational and health needs. The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

OUTSTANDING

School scoops top Ofsted award

STAFF and pupils at a South Tyneside special school are celebrating after it was judged as outstanding by Ofsted inspectors.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School in Cleveleys Terrace, Jarrow, retained the award it was given in 2010, despite a stricter criteria.

The school was inspected last month, and after praising its staff and pupils, Ofsted inspectors praised the school's progress.

Headteacher Hilary Harrison said: "We are delighted to be judged as outstanding. It is a testament to the hard work of our staff and pupils."

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

OUR SPECIAL SCHOOL MAKES GRADE

GCSE success celebrated

PUPILS have been wished every success as they leave a South Tyneside special school for pastures new.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School in Jarrow, is celebrating another successful year after seeing some of its best GCSE results ever.

Every Year 11 pupil gained at least one A* or A grade, with 75 per cent achieving five A* or A grades.

Among the standout performers were Lucas Omerod and Charlotte Smith, who each gained five A* or A grades.

Meanwhile, Connor Blackburn and Leigh Bradshaw achieved 10 A* or A grades, including English, maths and science qualifications.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

GREAT EFFORT... Connor Blackburn and Leigh Bradshaw

Pupils at Key Stage 5-6 have achieved a range of qualifications, including GCSE, Entry Level Certificate, and other vocational training.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

By ANGELA REED Education reporter angela.reed@northlinejournal.co.uk

Pupils probe the scene of crime

School takes part in forensic science event

Epiny Business and Enterprise School has taken part in a forensic science event, where pupils investigated a crime scene.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

The school is currently a temporary site in a converted garage. The new building will be a purpose-built school for children with special educational and health needs.

SERVING NEW SKILLS

YOUNGSTERS at a Jarrow School are learning new skills and dishing up tasty treats in a newly-refurbished community café, thanks to a team of volunteer workers.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School runs a unique café which caters for its pupils and is also open to the public, where the pupils themselves serve the local community, as part of their NVQ programme in hospitality and catering.

Pupils and local residents are delighted with the results of the café's revamp, thanks to the hard work of seven workers from Northumbrian Water who spent three days painting, decorating and clearing the building as part of Just An Hour, the company's employee-volunteering scheme.

TOP CLASS SCHOOL

Recognition for school as staff are chosen to help 'teach the teachers'

An outstanding Jarrow school has been chosen to help train the UK's next generation of teachers.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School, in Clervaux Terrace, Jarrow, has been selected by the National College for Teaching and Leadership to become a national teaching school - an important role in raising educational standards. Teaching schools take a leading role in raising standards and training new entrants to the profession. They also support other schools. Epiny was one of only 200 schools in England to be designated as a teaching school in 2010. The school is a member of the National Teaching Council, which is the UK's national body for the profession. The school's staff are all qualified and have a minimum of five years' experience. The school is a member of the National Teaching Council, which is the UK's national body for the profession. The school's staff are all qualified and have a minimum of five years' experience.

Outstanding' report for special

PUPILS' HONOUR FOR FORGING NEW LINKS

PUPILS at a South Tyneside school have been honoured for keep...

By TERRY KELLY
terry.kelly@northeast-press.co.uk

outlook have included supporting Oxfam and Fairtrade projects, and producing a DVD of traditional playground songs and games. Headteacher Hilary Harrison said: "We are very proud to receive the International School Award. "Teaching staff have been developing international links within the curriculum, which has provided a global approach across the whole school. "National links will continue to be developed to support a wide range of projects and foreign schools. The school's close ties with France, which have opportunities for pupils to visit and experience the country's culture and heritage. The school has also been successful in securing a number of international links with schools in the USA, Canada, and the UK. The school has also been successful in securing a number of international links with schools in the USA, Canada, and the UK.

GREAT NORTH RUN PREVIEW

School staff hoping to create a buzz at event

Epiny Business and Enterprise School staff are hoping to create a buzz at the Great North Run Preview event. The school is participating in the event, which is a 10-mile run for charity. The school staff are participating in the event, which is a 10-mile run for charity. The school staff are participating in the event, which is a 10-mile run for charity.

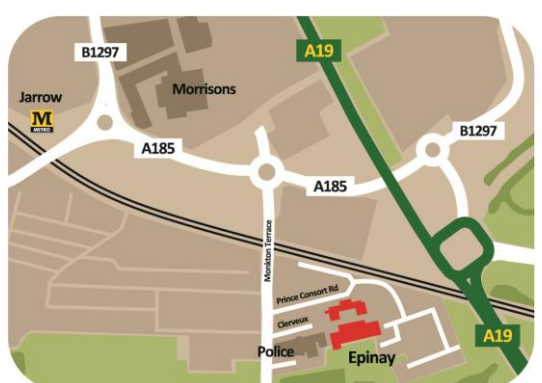

BIG DASH FOR CASH

Asda bag-pack in school's £1.6m bid

Epiny Business and Enterprise School has launched a fundraising campaign in the form of a bag after being chosen as a 'supermarket' for the Asda bag-pack. The school has been chosen as a 'supermarket' for the Asda bag-pack. The school has been chosen as a 'supermarket' for the Asda bag-pack.

Epiny Business and Enterprise School, Clervaux Terrace, Jarrow, Tyne and Wear. NE32 5UP
Tel: 0191 4898949