

Tuesday 16th June 2020

Hi everyone

How would you describe Tuesday? For me it is tuneful and timid.

- For everyone -

BBC daily lessons in Maths, English and another curriculum area:

should you need any additional support or guidance when doing phonics with your child.

Maths

Primary - which shapes can you spot around your home? Are there more squares in the kitchen or the bathroom? What shapes are the cupboard doors in your kitchen? How many are there? Where are the most circles? If you get outside today can you see any shapes out and about? What about fences and gates, what shapes are they made up of?

Secondary - symmetry, in your house are there any items that have symmetry? What about the lotions and bottles you may have in the bathroom? Do any of your clothes have symmetrical patterns? Socks! My favourite, do they have symmetrical patterns? Can you create a symmetrical pattern using items in your room, bathroom, kitchen? If you do then send them images of them into our facebook page, I'd love to see them!

Yesterday I asked you to read Part of the Party, a great story about different types of families, this link gives you loads of resources to make your own story, make the characters and even some stick puppets so that you can retell the story

There are many people in our lives and around us that are proud to belong to the LGBTQ movement, this link will tell you about some of them, can you do some research on some of your favourite inspirational people (LGBTQ or not). Tell me, who inspires you and why?

And of course I shall finish on a song!

One of my favourite uplifting songs and Miss Vincent has helped me with a sing and sign version, enjoy.

What a Wonderful World – Louis Armstrong -
